

Nate Dreikosen: There was a few different firms in Madison that I had offers to intern at, but SVA was the one firm that gave me the opportunity to not choose between audit and tax right away. I was able to get exposure to both sides of public accounting.

Mandy Paskey: I liked the regional firm. The smaller size to me it just seemed like you got to do a little bit more and started got to be a little bit more involved with the clients than you would a national or a larger firm.

Noah Fischer: You're gonna find the same work no matter where you go. It might be a different industry- healthcare, real estate, construction, manufacturing, but it's going to be overall the same work that you do. Make sure that you enjoy the people that you're working with because you're gonna work a lot of hours with them and if you don't enjoy it, it's going to be miserable. So for me, it's the people.

Ashley Nuckolls: They brought me in for you know a simple interview in the office. Then they set me up to have lunch with a couple people from the healthcare group.

Erin Breber: So even though I interviewed with people from the Madison office I said, "I'm from the Brookfield area. I'd like to go do my internship there." and they said, "yeah, perfect."

Ted Ibinger: It was really casual just going up and talking to them at the Career Fair and I mean it really helped during the interview that I met them before the actual interviews.

Noah Fischer: SVA came on campus, I did my initial interview with them, it went very well and they called me back for a second interview for a full-time staff position.

Mandy Paskey: Exciting. Being able to get involved with different things, I love the aspect that in my position I get to do both audit and tax.

Erin Breber: Diverse. I mean I get to have a lot of different interactions, it's not only with people but clients as well. I don't always work on one type of client so I find that that's actually one of the best parts of working here.

Nate Dreikosen: Casual, because we're able to dress for our day. On a daily basis, if you have client meetings, obviously, we dress up a little bit more. But if you don't have much going on, you're able to be a little bit more casual, wear jeans, you know whatever works for you. You're actually able to feel a little bit more comfortable at work as well.
