

As leaders, how often are we frustrated with mission-critical initiatives that fail to deliver results? The industry stats are not in our favor. Sixteen percent of projects exceed, fifty-three percent of projects are compromised and thirty-one percent of projects fail. The key ingredient in all of this is people. Hi, I'm Andrew DeMarco and I lead the strategy and change management practice at SVA consulting for over 20 years. I've worked across multiple industries with leaders and their teams to improve the link between strategy and execution. My expertise is in aligning stakeholders, designing high-performance organizations and solving complex business problems. Are you frustrated with failed initiatives? If so, I would love to come and speak with your group about how to solve these issues. Please contact Speaker Source, and thank you.