

Do you know what determines if an organization is the top 10%, no matter the industry? It's their ability to use data. Use data in the decision-making process. Hi, I'm John Baltes founder and president of SVA Consulting. What I'm typically asked to come and speak about is concepts just like this. Concepts like using data in the workplace to change behavior or to improve performance. My approach is quite a bit different in that we don't try to deliver a lot of data to the organization. We try to deliver the right data at the right time to change behavior. If you'd like me to come and speak to your group, please contact speaker source.
